

I think that the NAB should not be allowed to interfere with XM radio's programing. They are doing what all of thier "local" stations are afraid to do, provide public-service. The local over the air stations in many areas that I have been to play the same ho-hum type of music, are not reliable for information when you need it, and are overburdened with commercials. If the local stations were to change the way they run thier stations they might not have to worry about competitors like XM and Sirrius. What is going on, is people are showing that they are fed up with the way things are being done witht the local stations. We are willing to pay a little so that we can get the music, weather, news, and other information when we want it, not when it is convienient for the "Local Stations" to provide it to us.
Thank you
